Geoff Hamill & Ben Nance proudly present...

D. W. Henderson, Builder/Designer, 1963 - San Antonio Heights. "The Garden Penthouse", a 'Gold Medallion Idea Home'.

Unique home that was on display at the Los Angeles County Fair and moved to its current location in 1963. Four distinct architectural styles are present upon examining this contribution to the built environment: Mid Century Modern, Regency Chic, the California Ranch, and New Formalism. By combining all three of these distinct styles, Henderson shifts the narrative of established housing styles to one that embodies changing tastes, needs, and the emerging technology of 1960s United States. Additionally, by using tenets of New Formalist designs, Henderson pays homage to classical architecture but without superfluous ornamentation.

Original character defining features of the house remain throughout much of the interior such as tall soaring ceilings, walls of glass, bathroom tile and fixtures, kitchen hardware, and overhead lighting in many of the rooms. The kitchen was recently improved with a tasteful textured counter top. The primary suite has a private, enclosed patio, stained bamboo walls, and an inviting ambience. The 2nd bedroom has a private entrance. Separate Office/Den could also be used for guest quarters, art studio, gym, etc.

Perfectly perched at the end of a tranquil cul-de-sac on a lush, private half acre, enjoying panoramic views of the mountains, hillsides, the valley, and city lights.
